

The old building of the Heber Central School where Henry Aird developed the graded school system in Wasatch County during the 1890's.

The Center School, a community center for learning. It was used until the school district was consolidated and students were taken by bus to Heber.